An eight-person Friendsgiving seating map

Printable seating worksheet and card positions. Use this planning sheet with the full guide.

1. Draw eight positions

Use the worksheet's rectangular table and eight numbered seats. Write the real guest names in pencil. Note access needs, children who need supervision and space required for chairs and serving dishes.

2. Try a conversational layout

Ask guests about preferences instead of making assumptions. Place hosts where they can serve comfortably and leave a clear route to the kitchen. Move paper name slips around before writing final cards.

3. Place cards last

Once the plan is settled, copy names to blank cards and match each card to its numbered position. Keep the worksheet as a host reference. The linked cards are optional supplies, not a guarantee that every table seats eight.

Keep serving routes clear, supervise children, and keep open flames away from paper and decorations.

Full instructions: figurenook.com/guides/an-eight-person-friendsgiving-seating-map/

Your printable workspace

Write eight names in pencil. Account for access needs, serving routes and the real table size.

